Provisions for Four Months.

San Antonio, Texas, March 10.—Colonel John L. Clem, quartermaster-general of the Department of Texas, today received orders from Washington to procure provisions for four months for 10,000 men. Twenty thousand troops are expected to mobilize on the border, but it is thought that half that number will be detailed elsewhere than San Antonio.

The order for these provisions is generally taken as proof that the mobilization does not have drill and military character for its ultimate object, but the men believe that they are to see real service before long. The heavy loads of food and the absence of blank ammunition are the basis of their belief. When the Seventeenth Regiment left Fort McPherson, the men jumped to this conclusion, and fairly tore the roof off the barracks with cheers. The trip here was made in forty-eight hours without mishap. They found the ground northeast of Fort Sam Houston surveyed and watered. During the day a city of tents sprang up. It took General Jose W. Duncan, commander of the Department of Texas, just twenty-four hours to get the army into the field. The camp, despite the fact that there was not at first enough tubing in town for the construction, General Duncan, a square-jawed warrior with aggressive gray hair and merry eyes, is that Duncan who whipped the Moros on the island of Jolo so thoroughly several years ago that they have not made an organized resistance since.

The camp is on a gentle slope of the prairie, offering perfect drainage. The temperature today ranged around 50 degrees, but the air was clear and dry. Rain is a rarity.

Also in camp are several billion detestable typhoid bacilli. They are contained in the systems of 300 members of the Seventeenth Infantry, and constitute an antitoxin against typhoid fever. Use of the serum is not compulsory, but many of the men are taking it as a precaution.

There are three injections necessary. The first dose from the hypodermic needle contains 500,000 units of lead bacilli, the next two, 1,000,000 each.

The division mobilizing here will be known as the "manoeuvre division." General Lammie will be in command, and his staff will be in command of the division. General P. A. Smith, commander of the Department of Missouri, who is commanding a brigade, arrived today, accompanied by Lieutenant F. M. Watson, his aide, and Colonel Daniel J. McCarthy, quartermaster-general of the Department of the Missouri.

"War Game" Under Way.

Galveston, Texas, March 10.—With one-third of the army concentrated here and the remaining two-thirds en route on the army transport, the "war game" of the army's invasion of Galveston in the "war game" may be said to be well under way.

Brigadier-General L. L. Mills, who will command the brigade, arrived today from Atlanta, accompanied by his aide, and took up temporary headquarters in the new hotel building at Port Crockett. He announced, however, that he intended to go into

"Berry's for Clothes"

March 11th, 1911 (Just 116 years ago today), an act of Congress authorized the formation of the United States Navy. The nucleus of this Navy comprised a few old tubs, but they did their work.

Here are navy blue serges in spring weights that will do their duty as faithfully as the "old tubs."

camp with the soldiers as soon as his tent arrived. Colonel George T. Bartlett, of Atlanta, has been designated as chief of staff. General Mills, and Captain C. O. Sherrill, of Mobile, has been appointed chief engineer.

Eleven companies of coast artillery arrived during the day, completing the first provision of the army. They are commanded by Colonel C. J. Bailey, assistant to the chief of artillery at the first provision of the army.

Companies arrived are: Seventy-fifth, Ninth and 16th, from Fort Morgan, Ala.; Seventy-second, Seventy-fourth and 12th from Fort Screven, Ga.; Fifteenth and Twenty-fifth, from Fort Harrison, Pa.; Sixteenth, 14th and 15th from Charleston, S. C.

The two other regiments of coast artillery to be mobilized here as infantry have been designated as the 22nd and 24th regiments of coast artillery.

The scout cruiser Salem, which arrived at Galveston last night, after a fast trip from Pensacola, remained at Galveston for the night.

A report became current in Galveston this afternoon that the Salem was to go to Mexico, to do blockading duty in the Gulf of Mexico, and that the plan to stop filibustering. There was no confirmation of this report, however.

"Camp Crockett" today began to take on the appearance of a real army camp, with brown tents springing up all over the place.

The soldiers who have arrived here express themselves as delighted with the camp site, although all of them seem eager to move. If there is any prospect of a "serap."

London Is Nervous.

London, March 11.—The latest news received here concerning the situation in Mexico and the conduct of the American troops and warships appears to be regarded with great seriousness.

An indication of the nervousness of the commercial community over the situation is the fact that many insurance policies issued by an American underwriting corporation against the United States have been cancelled.

The underwriters gave notice yesterday that after March 26 a clause in their policies would become operative warping the liability against the capture, seizure or detention of vessels, or warlike operations, of all vessels trading in Mexico, together with their cargoes. The Morning Post today declared that the good can come from the attempt to minimize the possible gravity of the Mexican situation.

The Spectator regards the action of the United States as a very grave matter, and calculated to cause anxiety to all friends of that country. The Spectator hopes that the American action will be short, sharp and decisive.

Transport Sails for Mexico.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Newport News, Va., March 10.—The army transport Sumner, carrying artillerymen and militia, and loaded with mules, horses and supplies, steamed from Hampton Roads tonight bound for the Mexican coast. The Kilpatrick, the shipyard with the two transport ships, and the off Old Point, to take aboard the two companies going to Fort Monroe, under the command of General Smith. It is expected that they will be under way by daylight. The transports are taking in all 1,500 coast artillerymen, who are to serve as provisional infantrymen.

Will Deliver Outlaw.

Presidio, Tex., March 8, via Marfa, Tex., March 10.—Pancho Alvarado, a noted outlaw, and three of his gang have been captured by the insurgents under Jose de la Cruz Sanchez. The prominent leader has sent word to American authorities that he would deliver the outlaw on Texas soil for punishment.

A few years ago Alvarado killed Colonel Inspector Chapman, and since that time has been a thorn in the side of the American officials. He has made frequent raids into Texas.

Supplies for Hospital Corps.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Washington, D. C., March 10.—Fifteen carloads of government supplies from New York, consisting of horses, ambulances and supplies for hospital corps, have been shipped from New York to the hospital corps depot at Fort Belvoir, Tex., via Louisville, Ky.

Hospital Ship Sails.

Washington, D. C., March 10.—The hospital ship Solace, which later will join the fifth division of the Atlantic fleet as a hospital base, equipped with extensive medical supplies for use in connection with the naval operations in Southern waters, has sailed from Guantanamo, Cuba, for Hampton Roads.

Sails for San Diego.

Vallejo, Cal., March 10.—With more than 600 marines, 50,000 rounds of ball cartridges, 20 Springfield rifles and a quantity of stores aboard, the naval auxiliary Buffalo today sailed for San Diego.

Leaves for the Field.

Portland, Me., March 10.—A detachment of eight members of the hospital corps from the Portland artillery district left today for San Antonio, Tex., to take part in field work there.

FIRST TRIP TO NEW YORK

Lends Money to Stranger and Waits for Him to Have Check Cashed.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
New York, March 10.—Dennis T. Rose, a clean-cut, middle-aged man, came to this city today on his first trip as a buyer for his father, who keeps a department store at Henderson, N. C. Young Rose put up at the Imperial Hotel, and wandered around the White Light district to the Imperial Hotel, where he was within a block of the Imperial Hotel when a shabbily dressed man walked up to him, and holding out what appeared to be a fair sized diamond ring in each hand, offered to sell it. Another man, who was fairly well dressed, "happened" to come up, and gave Rose a broad wink. Rose left the man with the diamond ring, and walked up to the second stranger, who was passed over and the other fellow had, Rose told him, the man told him that he was a jeweler, and knew the value of stones. He said the ring might be worth buying, who told them that he was hard up, and as the "hook shops" were not open, he would be willing to sell the ring for $50.

The "Jeweler" looked at the ring and decided he was willing to buy it. "I've only got $75 in cash," he said regretfully, then he added, "perhaps you can lend me the money."

Rose said that he had only $10. The man with the ring then reduced the price to $45.

"I've got a check for $175," the jeweler said then to Rose, "if you'll lend me your $10, I'll get the check cashed at your hotel, and pay you."

Rose gave the "jeweler" his money. The ring was handed over, and the "jeweler" and Rose went to the Hotel Imperial. A couple of drinks were ordered, and then the jeweler said: "You wait here. I want to telephone to the manager of the hotel. He's a friend of mine, and he will cash the check."

Rose waited, and then when it dawned on him that he had been bamboozled, he went to his room.

He rummaged in his grip and found a big army revolver, which he took with him to the bar, where he told all and sundry that he was going to bore holes in the man that had fooled him.

He was calmed down somewhat, and told that he would be arrested for carrying a revolver in this city. He was persuaded to put the revolver back in the grip, and a friend accompanied him to the West Third Street station, where he told his story to Lieutenant Walsh. A couple of detectives were assigned to trace up the confidence man. He said he was mighty glad that his friends had taken the revolver from him and saved him from being locked up in addition to losing his money.

ACTORS REFUSE TO ACT

"My Cinderella Girl Troupe" Demands Four Weeks' Back Pay.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
New York, Va., March 10.—The Grubby Theatre was dark to-night and thereby hangs a tale of unpaid actors who went on a strike.

The show, "My Cinderella Girl," a class of "comic" opera, principally comic because lamentably weak-tea in the Grubby. The business was not encouraging. Evidently it has not been encouraging for four weeks prior, for the thirty-three men and women to-night declined to go on with the show unless the manager paid them four weeks' back-pay.

The manager didn't have the money for a pay-roll. Otto Volk, a resident manager of the Grubby, couldn't see where he would get any considerable part of it back, so he refused to "come across."

The actors refused to attempt to act. Patrons were notified and money refunded as they made their appearance to-night. The actors threatened, if not paid by noon to-morrow with transportation to Chicago, to be up things in court.

Captain Arthur Loveland Dead.

Wilmington, N. C., March 10.—Captain Arthur T. Loveland, fifty years old, of South Orange, N. J., master of the schooner J. L. Cook, died here today in the United States Marine Hospital of Bright's disease, with which he was acutely attacked on board his vessel while bound here from New York by a gale on February 22. He had been a sailing master for twenty-five years, and was well known in marine circles on the Atlantic coast. The body was shipped to-night to his old home at Atlantic City for burial.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Wadesboro, N. C., March 10.—Anson county will have an opportunity of voting on a proposition to issue $200,000 in bonds, the proceeds of which are to be used for the improvement of the roads of the county. The Board of County Commissioners, in calling an election to be held on May 2, also ordered a new registration of the voters of the county for this election. The registration books will be opened April 1, and closed April 22.

COLONEL SOUNDS NOTE OF WARNING

Believes in Commission Government, but Citizens Must Be "Good."

Birmingham, Ala., March 10.—Strong approval of the commission form of government in municipal affairs characterized Colonel Roosevelt's address to-day to the citizens of Birmingham.

Birmingham is about to experiment with the commission system. This fact was laid before the colonel to-day, and in the course of his address to the City Park open-air meeting he said:

"You are the first city of the size that has introduced the commission system in your municipal affairs. Now I believe in the commission system, and I am glad you are going to try the experiment; but I would like to say one word of warning to you, based upon thirty years of active experience in practical politics. Don't ever imagine that you can have any patent system if government which will work by itself if you don't act the part of good citizens. You need good laws, for if the laws are bad, the best men cannot produce very good results out of them. You need good laws, and you need to try every good governmental experience; but after they have been adopted, don't forget that the root of the matter lies in the character of the individual citizen."

To illustrate his warning, Colonel Roosevelt called attention to South American republics, which, with governmental systems similar to that of the United States, had failed to establish successful government. He continued:

"And now you are going to try an experiment which I think is fraught with infinite promise for good. For I believe in efficiency, in responsibility, and we have a right to look to you, the people of Birmingham, to see that you do your duty under it and make the form of government work well."

Colonel Roosevelt will spend the afternoon to-morrow at Jackson, Miss., leaving for New Orleans shortly after noon.

Early Morning Fire.

An alarm of fire was turned in early this morning from box 59 at St. John and Courts Streets. For a short while flames burst forth, and threatened small wooden houses. The damage, however, was small. Nearly all the houses in this section are of wood, and occupied for the most part by colored people.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Sannie Whitt.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Gloucester, Va., March 10.—Mrs. Sannie Whitt, wife of Rev. W. W. Whitt, of Gloucester, died at her home here to-day at the age of 70.

She was born in England, and her husband, Rev. W. W. Whitt, was a prominent minister of the Baptist Church in Gloucester. She was a devoted wife and mother, and her death is a great loss to her family.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock to-morrow at the home of the deceased. Burial will be in the cemetery.

Deaths

BLANTON—MRS. CAMILLA F. BLANTON, wife of Dr. H. H. Blanton, of Albemarle county, died to-day at 11 o'clock.

Fully conscious to the last, and giving the most comforting testimony as to her readiness to depart and with Christ, she peacefully passed away, leaving the valley of the shadow of death all aglow with the radiance of a triumphant faith.

Blanton was in her seventy-fifth year. A woman of charming personality, possessing all the noblest traits of a perfectly rounded character, her departure marks a distinct loss to the entire community.

Some three years ago the Rev. and Mrs. Blanton celebrated their golden wedding, and the event was one of the most joyous of their lives.

Mrs. Blanton was the mother of ten children, three of whom have preceded her to the spirit world.

She was a devoted wife and mother, and her death is a great loss to her family.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock to-morrow at the home of the deceased. Burial will be in the cemetery.

DALLA MURA—Died, at his brother's residence, 228 West Broad Street, New York, N. Y., after a lingering illness of several months, P. DALLA MURA, aged forty-two years. He was survived by his wife, Mrs. V. Dalla Mura, and daughter, Miss P. DALLA MURA, also by two brothers, Henry and Joseph, of this city, and his sisters and two brothers of Italy.

Funeral to take place THIS SATURDAY, March 11, from brother's residence, 228 West Broad Street. Churchman papers please copy.
